

Dear FCC, Asking permission for fax transmissions is absurd. I understand the need to stop 'junk' faxes, but to paint such a broad stroke as to say anyone receiving a fax must first give permission to the sender is ridiculous. Lets just take the easiest example: If I wish to file a compliant with your agency, I can fax to Toll-Free: 1-866-418-0232, but that would put me in violation of the proceeding, since I did not procure a permission slip from you. Also, I work in a company where people can fax in their order forms. I would believe it would be bad for the government, as well as the company to block the ability of the company to generate revenue.

Thank you for your time,
